Unitization Essentials

For more than 25 years the Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation, the Association of International Petroleum Negotiators, and the Institute for Energy Law have co-sponsored the annual Short Courses on International Oil & Gas Law, Contracts, and Negotiations. The Short Courses cover a wide variety of contractual and transactional subjects from Discovery to Development to Decommissioning encountered in the international oil and gas industry covered by numerous experienced industry experts. The Sponsors are hopeful of again offering the Short Courses during Fall 2021.

In preparation for the resumption of the Short Courses, the Sponsors are presenting a series of three webinars with Short Course faculty that will touch on subjects covered in much greater detail during the Short Courses.

April 28, 2021 at 8am PDT, 9am MDT, 10am CDT, 11am EDT for 1.5 hours

The third webinar in the series will briefly review:

- The role and importance of Unitization in the international oil and gas industry
- Key issues in Unitization
- Things to be wary of in Unitization

Special Offer!

Webinar registrants may credit the entire registration fee for this webinar against the registration fee for Short Course on International Oil & Gas Law, Contracts, and Negotiations being held September 27 – October 8, 2021.

PETER SLOAN

PETER SLOAN is a highly experienced senior international upstream attorney and recognized figure within the London oil and gas legal world. He has extensive experience conducting negotiations at the most senior level with co-venturers, financial institutions, governments, and NOCs. Peter has had significant experience serving as in-house counsel at various multinational oil and gas companies, and in these roles he managed numerous acquisitions; financings; and major governmental and joint venture agreements, including governmental concessions/PSAs, operating agreements, A+D and farmout agreements, bank facilities, and oil and gas services contracts. He has been involved with oil and gas projects in the African region for more than 15 years, making him uniquely qualified to handle the complex issues that arise with global energy projects.
